Lions

(Joshua Morton)

Lions are as orange as the morning sun

They are as brave as men at war

Lions are as fast as cars at top speed

I think the lion in my heart helps me stand my ground

The roar of lions is as loud as thunder hitting rock

Statues of lions stand guard at castle doors

Lions are kings of the countryside.

The coopers hawk Don Sands

He sits, tall, slim, silhouetted
against the evening sky.

Watching, silently watching from his elevated woodland perch.

He flies briefly on silent wings
alighting again, his tall slim form resting, watching, ever watching.

Then he flies off into the unknown
on those powerful silent wings
to haunts unseen, to rest again
silently watching, watching.

In his vigil he's certainly unaware of the debate
occupying other inhabitants
about his origin and that of all living creatures.

He rests and watches.
Rests and watches
as evening advances.

How many evenings have advanced since of the beginning of time?

How many of his ancestors
have rested and watched;
tall, slender, silhouetted
against the evening sky?

Bear In There

(Shel Silverstein)

There's a Polar Bear

In our Frigidaire--

He likes it 'cause it's cold in there.

With his seat in the meat

And his face in the fish

And his big hairy paws

In the buttery dish,

He's nibbling the noodles,

He's munching the rice,

He's slurping the soda,

He's licking the ice.
And he lets out a roar
If you open the door.
And it gives me a scare
To know he's in there--
That Polary Bear
In our Fridgitydaire

Pig Limerick

(Arnold Lobel)

There was a sad pig with a tail
Not curly, but straight as a nail.
So he ate simply oodles
Of pretzels and noodles,
Which put a fine twist to his tail.

Winter Guests

(Elsie S. Lindgren)

Hurrah! for the bravest birds of all!

They did not fly away last fall.

They do not mind the ice and snow,
but sing a song when North winds blow.

Fire-red Cardinal; Junco gray;

The Chickadee in a white vest –

I love these winter birds the best.

Oh, peanut butter on crumbs of cake and treats of suet balls I make,

and seeds of sunflowers by the score
I heap on their feeders outside my door to bid them welcome, every one,
And keep them strong for the winter fun.
Few winter guests are as bright as these –
Cardinals, Bluejays, and Chickadees.

Ducks

(Mary Ann Hoberman)

Ducks are lucky

Don't you think?

When they want to

Take a drink,

All they do is

Duck their bill.

(Doesn't matter

If they spill.)

When they want to

Take a swim,

All they do is

Dive right in;

And they never

Seem to sink.

Ducks are lucky,

Don't you think?
